

Designer: Lottie Hutchinson

My name is Lottie Hutchinson and I created this dress in the theme of “Swinging Sixties”! My dress also had to be suitable to be sold at a music festival so I researched a lot into sixties music as well. I found this project very difficult but rewarding once finished. If I were to do this project again I would make my dress more fitting and shorter. Overall I am proud of my work and will continue with textiles at college.

Abi Robinson said: I think this is a very nice dress, and the style represents the trends of the sixties very well and the striking pattern contrasts well with the black block colour of the main section. I also think the dress is very well made which shows through when being worn. Overall a fabulous garment.

Ella Tolladay said: I think the dress is very fitting to the swinging sixties theme. It is a very well made dress and the colours go well together overall a very good, well made garment.
