

York ISSP PeaceJam Slam York: 'Right to Education' 10AM – 4 PM on Saturday 4 February

A great opportunity to start 2017 for students in Year 9 & above!

Are you keen to learn how to make change in our world? Do you want the chance to be inspired by people who know how to make a difference? Do you like meeting, learning and taking action alongside people in our city? Do you want to be involved in an organisation where Nobel Peace Prize Laureates work with young people?

Here's a taster of what the day will involve:

- Pascal Ally from the Democratic Republic of Congo will inspire us with his experience of funding small enterprises by children to bring peace.
- University human rights' mentors will guide you through the day.
- Workshops on topics such as how to be a successful peacemaker, hip-hop and social justice, education as a human right, expressing rights through drama, taking action to promote rights in the City of York and beyond.

If you would like to be part of this exciting event please click on the link to complete an online registration form <http://tinyurl.com/PeaceJamSlam2017>

Your form should be submitted by Wednesday February 1 when the form will close. If you have any problem when filling in the form please email york.issp@gmail.com.

We will send you a confirmation by email after the closing date with a reminder of the following details: Registration on the day at 9.45am in the foyer of the Law and Management Building on the new Heslington East Campus at the University of York.

No school uniform is necessary but bring a pen, paper and a packed lunch.

We look forward to seeing you on Saturday February 4.
