

Capital Letters

Capital letters can be used for lots of things.

- One use is for proper nouns.
- Proper nouns are the names of particular people, places or organisations and they must have a capital letter at the beginning.
- For example: England, David, Millthorpe School and words that come from these, e.g. English.

Full Stops

Full stops are really easy to use.

A full stop shows the end of a sentence.

Put a full stop at the end of every sentence (unless you are using ? or **!).

TASK: Stick the text into your blue literacy book. Re-write the passage, putting the capital letters and full stops in the right places.

the cat was playing happily in the streets where he lived the town was called street which was very confusing for the poor postman the cat's name was tiger and his owner was a small boy called tom every morning tiger would sit out on the wall waiting for the postman to deliver the letters to each house and every morning the postman would mumble about how confusing the addresses were

TASK ANSWERS

Stick the text into your blue literacy book. Re-write the passage, putting the capital letters and full stops in the right places.

The cat was playing happily in the streets where he lived. The town was called Street which was very confusing for the poor postman. The cat's name was Tiger and his owner was a small boy called Tom. Every morning Tiger would sit out on the wall waiting for the postman to deliver the letters to each house and every morning the postman would mumble about how confusing the addresses were.

Extension: Proper Nouns

Task: Write the following words into your blue literacy book. Circle the words that are proper nouns and should have a capital letter.

january

then

james

angry

shop

claire

saturday

because

lauren

friday

london